Crafts magazine presents a series of events taking place from 15–17 May

In conversion with... Ted Noten

Friday 15 May 2009, 3–4pm

Crafts Council function space

The former psychiatric nurse turned internationally renowned jewellery maker discusses his influences and how they've shaped his extraordinary career with Crafts editor Grant Gibson, explaining, among other things, exactly why he once dressed a dead mouse in pearls and encased it in acrylic.

Is the future handmade?

Saturday 16 May 2009, 3–4pm

Crafts Council function space

With the financial markets in a state of meltdown and the tenets of globalization being questioned, is this an opportunity for craft to thrive? A lively panel discussion featuring the likes of the V&A's deputy head of research and crafts critic Glenn Adamson, Martin Raymond, co-founder of The Future Laboratory, and recent RCA design products graduate Simon Hasan. Chaired by Crafts editor Grant Gibson.

The Sunday Supplement

Sunday 17 May 2009, 2.30–4pm

Crafts Council function space

Gallery Libby Sellers operates as a guerilla gallery, promoting and supporting emerging designers and makers such as Atelier NL and Stuart Haygarth in temporary locations around the world. In this interview with Crafts editor Grant Gibson, the eponymous Sellers discusses her work and what she looks for in up-and-coming talent.
